Washington—The acid test of sincerity—whether the formation of the Rhineland republic is the act of the people of that region or the design of the French—will come with the question of recognition.

It was said by officials here Monday that there are no diplomatic understandings or provisions in the Versailles treaty or in any other pact which require the allied and associated powers to act in unison in recognizing the new republic. This means separate action. Should France extend recognition at once even before it is apparent whether the German government can by force keep its territory intact, diplomats say it is inevitable that France will be charged with having fomented the uprising.

Under the Versailles treaty the signatory powers pledge themselves to respect the territorial integrity of each other. This resort for sovereignty is an aged source of recognition. When the Republic of Panama was proclaimed, the United States within seventy-two hours extended recognition, an act which the government of Colombia—whom Panama separated—claimed was clear evidence of American complicity. The United States finally paid an indemnity of $25,000,000 as a sop to Colombia's feelings. But at the time the question debated very extensively was whether a hostile act wasn't committed when one nation helped another small country separate from a parent state and then by recognition gave the smaller state moral support. The justification made at the time by the late President Roosevelt was that the end justified the means and that the Panama Canal could not have been rebuilt but for the separation of Panama from Colombia.

FRANCE, BELGIUM ARE READY
To take advantage of the circumstances to confront the world today. According to cable dispatches, France and Belgium are getting ready to recognize the Rhineland republic. Embassies from the latter have been in Paris for several days in intimate conference with the French authorities. David Lloyd George is quoted today as saying that the French are unquestionably behind the new Rhineland republic.

The French cry that they want security and that the Rhineland republic gives them a buffer state between Germany and France. On that theory they are supporting the new republic. Germany is not yet a member of the League of Nations. France has not permitted the German application for admission to be approved. Thus the famous article ten itself (Continued on Page 9).

TRAIN BANDITS ELUDE CAPTURE

Eureka, Calif.—Capture before spring of the bandits who held up a Southern Pacific train and killed four trainmen in the Siskiyou mountains, Oct. 11, is doubtful, in the opinion of Sheriff Arthur Ross. Sheriff Ross returned here Monday night after spending several days along the Humboldt-Norte-co line hunting the bandits.

The holdup men, the sheriff believes, are in the Klamath national forest and are well supplied with provisions as a result of the robbery of a cabin. There is a large timbered area, he said, in which the fugitives may hide and where their capture before spring would be difficult because the country is in the grip of the winter snows.

U. S. WARNS POWERS TO KEEP TANGIER TREATY

Paris—The state department at Washington has made known to the powers represented in the conference over Tangier—Great Britain, France and Spain—that it takes for granted that any regime adopted for Tangier will be in accordance with the decisions of the Algeiras conference as respects the open door.

The attitude of France remains that the question is one concerning Great Britain, France and Spain only.

DENVER CLAIMS ONLY WHITE CROW; OSHKOSH GOES 'EM TWO BETTER

By Associated Press
Denver, Colo.—A snow white crow or magpie, believed to be the only specimen ever taken alive, was captured Monday near Denver by Joseph Cummings, high school boy.

Charles Bowman Hutchins, naturalist of Mill Valley, Calif., who is in Denver, heard of the find and Monday night went to the boy's home to see the bird, and believes it to be the only one in existence.

OSHKOSH HAS SEVERAL

Oshkosh—Perhaps the Denver white crow is as rare a specimen as Naturalist Hutchins' claims, but Winnebago, produced more than one white crow, one of which is now in the museum at the Oshkosh public library. Another white crow is the property of Clyde Terrell of this city. Both were found and captured on a Winnebago county farm. At the Oshkosh museum is also an Albinos robin, nearly all its feathers being white.

HINES CHARGES WASTE OF FUNDS TO VET BUREAU

Large Sum Paid For Hospital
Plans Which Later Were Discarded

By Associated Press
Washington—The special senate committee investigating the veteran bureau was told Tuesday by Director Hines that on one occasion the bureau paid $44,000 for architect plans for a hospital at Livermore, Calif., and then found that the drawings submitted were unsuitable.

The director said the payment was made before he came into office and that the recipient, Matthew O'Brien, of Los Angeles, had filed a claim for an additional $13,000 which was disallowed. General Hines added that O'Brien had come to Washington and had received standard plans or public buildings from the war and treasury department and that these plans were followed closely in the drawings he later submitted for Livermore.

TARIFF QUESTION TROUBLES BRITAIN

General Election May Become Necessary If Baldwin Makes Revenue Change

By Associated Press
London—Great Britain may soon be preparing for another general election, if the information appearing in Tuesday's newspapers is reliable.

In a speech to be delivered at the Unionist party conference at Plymouth on Thursday Prime Minister Baldwin, according to the Daily Express, is expected to propose the all-round protection of British industries by a scientific tariff. It is not anticipated that he will suggest a tax on imported wheat or meat, but rather that the revenue from a tariff on imported manufactures be applied to subsidizing the dominions in the production of meat, wheat and cotton.

If this program is adopted the government will have to appeal to the country for its endorsement, because when the Conservatives came to power at the last election Mr. Bonar Law gave a pledge that there would be no radical alteration of the country's fiscal system during the life of the present parliament.

STATE DELAYS ORLADY TRIAL

By Associated Press
Alma, Wis.—Obtaining a continuance until Oct. 29, over the objections of counsel for the defense, in the trial of George B. Orlady, former vice-president of the Mondovi State bank, accused of complicity in the robbery of the bank last December, Assistant Attorney General J. E. Messerschmidt of Madison and Special District Attorney Martin Fugina for the state, Tuesday began completing depositions in the case, on which incomplete evidence they obtained the delay.

The incomplete depositions are said to be those of Charles Eladd and Alfred Meyers, now serving sentences in another case, at Stillwater penitentiary in Minnesota. At the time of the robbery $9,511 in loot was taken.

SMALL PARDONS AIDES JAILED ON HIS BEHALF

Illinois Governor Says Newmark
And Boyle Suffered Miscarriage Of Justice

By Associated Press
Waukegan, Ill.—Michael J. Boyle, Chicago labor leader, and Ben Newmark were released from the county jail Monday night, when commutations of their six months jail sentences for contempt of court, granted by Governor Len Small, were delivered to Sheriff Edwin Ahlstrom.

Boyle had served 50 days and Newmark 22 days of the sentences, which were imposed in connection with their failure to answer questions of the grand jury investigating charges that attempts at "jury fixing" had been made at the trial and acquittal of Governor Small on conspiracy charges last year.

A petition for a writ of mandamus for their reincarceration will be filed before the supreme court in December, A. V. Smith, states attorney for Lake-co, said. He claimed the action of the governor was illegal and that the state executive was without pardon authority in contempt cases. It was first reported Prosecutor Smith would order the rearrest of Boyle and Newmark on their release from jail, but no action was taken.

IMPLIES CONSPIRACY

Governor Small, in a statement from Springfield, said he had commuted the sentences because both men had been punished in furtherance of a political conspiracy to discredit the governor and discredit his administration.

"It is the opinion of the governor," his statement read, "that beyond all reasonable doubt this action would not have been instituted had the matter before the court been free from politics, and had it not been to further such a conspiracy. Therefore, no punishment should have been inflicted. It was a miscarriage of justice."

Boyle and Newmark came to Chicago immediately after their release.

U. S. PRISONS NEED ADDITIONAL SPACE

Rapid Increase Of Prisoners
Necessitates Extension
Of Housing Capacity

By Associated Press
Washington, D. C.—The rapid increase in the number of federal prisoners has created an urgent necessity for additional housing space. Superintendent of Prisons H. H. Votaw reported Tuesday to Attorney General Daugherty. Another pressing problem is the prison management, the report said, is that of providing useful employment for prisoners.

In the three principal federal prisons, Atlanta, Leavenworth and McNeil island and the smaller institutions, there were confined on June 8, 7,665 prisoners, an increase of 670 over last year. Of this number it was said 4,900 are in idleness or semi-idleness. Congress again will be urged, Mr. Votaw said, to authorize a reformatory for male first offenders and one for all women prisoners. It also will be asked, he said, to provide certain industrial work that the prisoners may aid in their own upkeep as well as that of dependents and help reduce the maintenance cost to the government.

GREEKS DESERT ROYALIST CHIEF

By Associated Press
Athens—It is reported from Chalcis that most of the provincial soldiers who revolted under the leadership of General Metaxas, the Royalist, are returning to the ranks. The men assert that they were duped by their officers whom they followed under the belief that they were wanted for regular service.

Monday passed without incident, the circulation of the population throughout the city being forbidden after 10 P. M. except by permit. The government is issuing reassuring statements but no definite information as to the situation in the Peloponnese is available.

Chicago—Carelessness on the part of pedestrians and drivers of automobiles caused 31,604 fatal and non-fatal accidents in the United States during 1922, at a minimum financial loss of $13,509,075 according to an estimate by the Chicago Safety commission.

FORD CLUBS TO ORGANIZE NEW NATIONAL PARTY

National Organization Conference
Called For Dec.
12, 13 and 14

By Associated Press
Detroit—Formation of a new national political party with Henry Ford as its standard bearer will be undertaken at a national organization conference of all Ford for President clubs, to be held here Dec. 12, 13, and 14. The call for the conference was decided upon at a meeting Monday night of several Michigan Ford clubs.

The conference, according to leaders, probably will name a date and place for holding a nominating convention next spring.

The conference call will go out within a few days. It was stated by William Kronberg, secretary of the Dearborn Ford for President club. "It was decided upon," he said, "only after insistent demand from Ford clubs throughout the country."

The Dearborn club, he said, had been inactive for some time owing to its inability to obtain from Henry Ford any statement as to whether or not he would accept nomination by a party the clubs might organize. "We virtually were forced into action," he added, "many of the clubs in other states threatening to proceed with a convention call if we did not do so."

HUNGRY GERMANS THREATEN STRIKE

Loaf Of Bread Reaches Five
And One Half Billion
Mark Level

By Associated Press
Berlin—Dr. Schacht, managing director of the Damstadter bank, said Tuesday that representatives of Berlin working men had demanded payment of wages in stable currency at a strike which is proclaimed. He added that he considered there was serious danger of such a strike.

It costs five and a half billion marks to buy a loaf of bread and the food situation is continuing to rise to numerous small demonstrations and occasionally a larger outbreak. The police were summoned last evening to forty places where disturbances were occurring but quickly restored order.

No serious encounters occurred over night. The most important incident was in the Ackerstrasse market hall where the police dispersed several thousand persons who attempted to demolish the iron grills of the shop.

Prohibition Chief Adopts Proposal Of Pinchot To Control Rum

By Associated Press
Washington—Plans are being laid by the treasury to check supplies of liquor reaching the illicit trade both at the seaboard and at the possible domestic sources. A reinforced coast guard system of close inspection of breweries and distilleries are the proposed means.

Taking up the suggestions of Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania, here Monday as a means of "drying up" domestic liquor sources, a statement issued by Prohibition Commissioner Haynes announced that "provision already has been made in treasury decision 3522 for international inspections of breweries and distilleries by enforcement officials. The plan, treasury officials said, will require additional appropriations over those for the current fiscal year, however, and there was no indication of when it might be put into effect.

EPISCOPALIANS MEET IN SUPERIOR CONCLAVE

By Associated Press
Superior—The two day convocation of LaCrosse, at which members of the clergy and laity of the Episcopal church of northwestern Wisconsin will attend will open Tuesday at Guild hall. Representatives of the Episcopal church from throughout this section of the state are expected to attend as well as a group of prominent visitors from the southern part of the state.

The Right Rev. Walter M. Webb, D. D., Bishop of Milwaukee, will be the principal speaker. He will deliver an address at 8 P. M. Tuesday.

"BUS QUEEN" FIGHTS RAIL LINES FOR RIGHT TO OPERATE IN IOWA

By Associated Press
Des Moines, Ia.—The Iowa railroad commission may commandeer the Senate chamber Tuesday for a hearing on two applications for licenses to operate motor bus lines. The applicants are the Red Ball Transportation company owned by Miss Helen Schultz, Mason City, "bus queen," and the Jefferson Highway Transportation company, a Minnesota corporation. Both seek to operate motor passenger transport lines out of Mason City to Des Moines, Clear Lake and to the Iowa-Minnesota line enroute to St. Paul.

Miss Schultz's application has attracted wide interest, because the young woman has built up within the last 18 months the most extensive bus business in the state.

Four railroads and two interurban lines are opposing the granting of the licenses which the applicants seek on the grounds that the bus lines are "public conveniences" and established in conformity with the laws.

ROSEBUSH FAVORS DUAL AGENCY FOR Y. M. C. A. CONTROL

Appleton Man Heads Faction
For Retention Of Present System

Cleveland—Whether the present "dual-agency" system—one general agency under the unified control of a national council, or both plans will go to the 2,000 local associations for a referendum vote was expected to be decided at the constitutional convention of the Y. M. C. A. Tuesday.

Fred W. Ramsey of Cleveland and Jackson C. Rosebush of Wisconsin, spokesmen for the two factions which were created Monday when the convention split over the question were in conference practically all night in an effort to reach an agreement. They were instructed to report Tuesday morning.

Ramsey was the spokesman for a group favoring the single agency system. Mr. Rosebush was the spokesman for those who favor the present system of the central agencies and state organizations. Both plans provide for a national committee to replace the international committee. Both plans also provide for a board of review, but under the Ramsey plan it would not have as much power as that given by the Rosebush draft. The Ramsey plan provides for a national council of from 300 to 400 representatives, while that of Rosebush would call for a small national legislative body.

DETROIT GAS PRICE BACK TO 16.8 CENTS

Detroit—Gasoline prices that dropped 2 cents to 12.5 cents a gallon last week have rebounded to 16.8 cents it was learned Tuesday when the Central Oil Co. announced a 4 cent increase effective immediately. J. L. Francis, president of the company, said gasoline at 12.5 cents was sold at a loss "and it has been decided to get back on a firm basis that will enable us to do business."

Other companies refused to say if their planned immediate gasoline price increases.

G. O. P. LEADERS WORRIED OVER SPLIT IN RANKS

Balance Between Dominant Parties In Congress Extremely Delicate

By Associated Press
Washington—Whether the Republicans will be able to organize the house and senate immediately upon the convening of the sixty eighth congress is a subject of concern to some of their leaders.

The balance between the two dominant parties in both houses is so delicate that a small group of Republican Progressives can block the election of both the speaker of the house and the president of the senate.

A majority of the membership is necessary for the organization of each house. The Republicans will have a majority not to exceed 18 and so it will be possible for the delegation from a single Republican state such as Wisconsin, to hold up the organization program. The progressives of the house, organized and militant, are preparing to take advantage of this situation and it is the belief now that they will undertake to force concessions from the majority leadership, particularly with reference to government expenditures, as consideration for their support of the party ticket.

If the senate progressives have any plans with respect to an organization fight they have not made them known. Some of the Republican leaders say they anticipate no difficulty in putting through the party slate, but others are less optimistic. The western Republicans are deeply interested in railroad legislation and it would not be surprising to some senators if they sought to bring about changes in the personnel of the interstate commerce committee.

Refusal To Appoint Friend Of Governor Caused Breach

By Associated Press
Oklahoma City—Dr. E. T. Brann, former confidant of Governor J. C. Walton told the investigation and impeachment committee of the Oklahoma peachment committee of the Oklahoma house that he ascribed his removal from office as state banking commissioner to his refusal to appoint an unqualified assistant at the behest of the executive, according to his testimony read Tuesday in the house.

Dr. Brann told the committee he refused to appoint the man and that he was later summoned to the governor's office and that the executive declared:

"That stuff won't get by with me. I have five other friends you have got to take care of."

The witness said he stood his ground and that the difference with the executive was never adjusted.

Paris—There is absolutely no foundation for the assertion made by David Lloyd George, as quoted in messages received from the United States, that French money was behind the Rhineland Separatist's movement. It was said at the French foreign office Tuesday. Mr. Lloyd George, it was added, furnished the refutation of his own assertion when he remarked that one of the consequences of separation would be that France would find it more difficult to collect reparations.

LOUIS PEKLY HOME NEAR SHIOCTON IS DESTROYED BY FIRE

Flames which spread so rapidly the parents had difficulty in rescuing three small children asleep in bed completely destroyed the 2-story frame farm home of Louis Pekly, one and a half miles northwest of Shiocton, about 9 o'clock Monday evening. The loss is estimated at $1,500, and is covered partly by insurance.

A defective chimney was the cause of the fire. The blaze was gaining headway rapidly when Mr. and Mrs. Pekly discovered it. They had not retired but the three children were sleeping. They fought their way through the smoke to the bedroom and carried the little ones from the building.

Neighbors hurried to the scene and with their help the family was able to save a piano and part of dining room furniture. Everything else was consumed, including the clothing and personal effects of the family.

The fire had made big headway and efforts to check it were futile. Attention was given by helpers to saving the other buildings on the farm.

MURDER HINTED IN BLENKER MYSTERY

By Associated Press
Wisconsin Rapids—Possible murder is hinted at by authorities in the circumstances surrounding the finding of the body of August Cickin, 50 years old, Chicago, on the road near Blenker in Wood-co, with his skull crushed, Monday.

Cickin who, it is supposed, had been visiting relatives and friends around Blenker, which is composed largely of Lithuanians was found dead with a crushed skull which an examination by a physician disclosed had been carefully washed, and the body appeared to have been laid there after death. Persons in the vicinity who are being questioned by authorities say the dead man was kicked by a horse, but the physician examining the body believes, from the nature of the wound, that it not probable.

Tough If You're Princess In Bolshevik Russia

PRINCESS GORCHAKOVA

Moscow — Even the proletariat of old Russia has had many tough seedings in these days of famine. But think of the surviving remnants of the nobility of Nicholas I. Under the regime of Lenin and Trotsky, they've suffered worse than death.

Take Princess Gorchakova, for instance. Her mother was shot at the beginning of the Bolshevik revolution in 1917, and her father, who had at different periods ruled over the provinces of Kaluga and Viatka was imprisoned. Kamenoff had spared his life only because of a favor Princess Gorchakova once had done for him.

Then the princess, who had married a surgeon named Nizhnev when she was 15, lost her two children. Lack of food and medicine resulted in their deaths.

And when Henry C. Wolfe, recently returned to America from work with the American Relief Administration, saw her a year ago in the village of Meles in the Smolensk province, the princess had not tasted white bread for four years. She had forgotten what cocoa tasted like.

She and her husband were existing on a small allowance of black bread and dried fish, given in return for Nizhnev's services as a surgeon for the soviet.

The Relief Administration couldn't assist her because of her husband's work for the Bolsheviks. But former Governor Goodrich of Indiana contributed a special fund for the alleviation of the suffering of former intelligentsia. Wolfe, in Meles, received 15 food packages. One was turned over to the princess.

As long as she remained just plain Madame Nizhnev, the princess' safety from the hands of the soviet is as assured. Let her revert to her royal rank and it will be a different story.

STREET TORN UP TO PUT IN SEWER

Street Department Making Improvements In North Part Of City

While the 1,400 feet sewer is being constructed within the five blocks on Water-ave and Newberry-st. to Can-deest, motorists will do well to detour by way of Newberry-st. A good number of motorists do not seem to be aware that this street was recently improved, Newberry-st. from the John-st. bridge up to Telulah park has been graded and surfaced with crushed stone. It is a shorter route and in much better condition than Water-ave.

Improvements have also taken place recently in the Sixth ward in the vicinity of Erb park. Van Smith's, otherwise known as Parkway-blvd has been extended one block from Oneida-st to Morris-st and thus provides another route to Erb park. Morris-st adjoining Erb park has been graded from Van Smith-st to Levis-st, the south boundary of the park.

100 Autos Are Needed On Saturday

One hundred automobiles are needed Saturday for a sight-seeing trip in connection with the convention of papermill superintendents and technical men here, according to Hugh G. Corbett, secretary of the chamber of commerce, who has been asked to obtain the use of that number of vehicles.

The delegates are to be taken through a part of the valley and then to Kimberly, where they will make a tour of inspection of the Kimberly-Clark company's mill and be guests of the company at a luncheon at the dining hall there.

"We need some of the cars at 2 o'clock in the morning and others a little later," said Mr. Corbett, "and I wish to appeal to our citizens to place their cars at the disposal of the delegates if it is at all possible. We are noted for our hospitality, and this will be one of the means of showing it."

The machines will be needed for two or three hours. All who will convey delegates are asked to telephone the chamber of commerce, No. 201, telling how many they can carry and at what hour the car will be available.

TOURISTS LEAVE $45,000,000 IN STATE IN 1923

Profits From Automobile Traveling Public Aggregate $25,000,000

Profit amounting to approximately $9,000,000 annually is made by Wisconsin interests from out-of-state tourists and $25,000,000 annually from all tourists, the state highway department estimates in a review of tourist activities. The review includes a summary of the count of out-of-state automobiles in this state made by the department on August 5.

The report declares that 29,499 automobiles from other states were reported to the department on the appointed day, from highway officials, chambers of commerce and local authorities. These automobiles represented every state in the Union, Hawaii and three Canadian provinces. Though some of the cars were counted as high as fifteen times, deductions and estimates made by the highway department shows that not less than 30,000 out-of-state were in Wisconsin on the day considered.

BIG BUSINESS

"Serving tourist business is fast becoming one of the principal industries of the state, the importance of which is not generally appreciated," the highway commission said in its statement. "The number of automobiles counted on August 3 represents a probable average for the state during months of July and August. It is believed that during June and September there is an average of at least half as great and that tourists turning the remainder of the year would bring the total number up to an average of 30,000 cars during 100 days."

$20,000,000 PROFITS

"It is estimated from inquiries among tourists that the average tourist automobile spends at least $15 daily while in the state. This would mean an average of $450,000 and of $45,000,000 annually. If 20 per cent of this is profit, the annual profit through this source is $9,000,000. It is conservatively estimated that the profits from tourist business, both from residents of the state and non-residents, is in excess of $25,000,000 annually. This amount is more than three times the amount expended annually for highway activities."

The report shows that Illinois automobiles outnumbered those of all other states counted in Wisconsin August 3. The number from that state was 15,532, or 52 per cent of all those counted. The rank of other leading states follows: Minnesota, 1,595 or 15 per cent; Michigan, 2,357 or 8 per cent; Iowa, 1,570 or 6 per cent; Indiana, 1,135 or 4 per cent; Ohio, 700, Ontario, British Columbia and Manitoba were the Canadian provinces represented in the group.

CALL A. A. L. CLUB MEETING FRIDAY

Branch No. 1 Discusses Change in Management Of Recreation Clubrooms

Whether future management of the bowling alleys and clubroom in the insurance-bldg should rest with branch No. 1 of the Aid Association or Lutherans or with the Lutheran Aid Bowling club will be decided at a meeting of all members of the latter club Friday evening at the clubrooms. Plans for this gathering were made by branch No. 1 members at the monthly meeting Sunday evening in the club quarters. The club room was established by the branch when the office building was erected, with the understanding that the aid association would sponsor it only until the time when the bowling club was able to assume management itself. The club has become well organized and the clubroom has had a good patronage. Members who meet Friday will decide whether the club is able to take over the venture, or whether this plan should be deferred for a longer time.

Three incumbent directors and one trustee were nominated for reelection by vote of the branch. The directors are C. J. Schulz, Saginaw, Mich., O. Renner, Chicago, and Henry Kahner, St. Paul, Minn. The trustee is E. R. Schneider, of Green Bay. These nominees will be voted upon by all branches of the association at the general election in December.

The membership prize of $3 was not given because the person whose name was drawn was not in attendance.

Once Popular War Stories No Longer Are In Demand

During the days of the war all one heard was war, war and more war. This was reflected in the fiction of that time. Nearly everyone who could use a typewriter or push a pencil and had any experience on the battlefields or in home service, wrote a book about it. We "gobbled" them up and asked for more. Now if we should go into the public library or the bookstore, it is not likely that we should find any of them in stock. There is no demand for them and very few are published.

The exception to this, of course, are the non-fiction books written about the war and those by Oppenheim. The non-fiction books are used for references and Oppenheim's books sell well because he is noted for his ability to tell a good "yarn" and his stories are not strictly war tales, but run to international intrigue and mystery.

DIED NATURAL DEATH

As one bookseller expressed it, most of these "over-night" books were only trash and their death was but natural. Books that are used for reference are those by E. M. Baldwin, Sir Max Aitkin, Demetrio Yaka and J. M. Beck. "A History of the Marine" by Mildred Aldrich and "My Four Years in Germany" by James W. Gerard were two of the best books on the war and are greatly used as a source of reference.

Western stories and detective tales are at present the most widely called for at the public library and at the bookstores. There is also a growing demand for "smutty" fiction, perhaps more so than ever before.

WANT APPLETON TO HELP IN NEAR EAST

Week Of Nov. 4 to 11 Designated As Time For Special Effort For Destitute Children

Preliminary steps for soliciting help in Appleton for orphanage work among the children of the Near East have been made and the week of Nov. 4 to Nov. 11 has been designated as the time for collecting funds and clothing to be sent to the unfortunate youngsters. At a meeting of the Appleton Ministerial association in the Y. M. C. A. Monday morning, it was decided that the ministers would devote part of the services on Sunday, Nov. 4, to a discussion of the Near East problem and an appeal for help.

Captain J. R. Phelps, who spent several years in the Near East also is taking up the need for help with other organizations in the city so that there will be an understanding of the great need that exists in the Near East. The Rev. E. W. Wright, pastor of Memorial Presbyterian church, is chairman of the committee in charge of the work.

NOT A CAMPAIGN

The committee in charge does not want to designate the period from Nov. 4 to 11 as a campaign or a drive. Rather it is to be a solicitation of help. No definite quota has been assigned to this community but every effort will be made to make a creditable showing.

Captain Phelps is emphasizing that the money and the aid is not to be used for adults refugees except in case of great emergency. The Near East Relief is concentrating its efforts on the orphan children in Greece and Turkey. Something like 60,000 of these youngsters are being taken care of and if the Near East Relief should give up the work the condition of these youngsters probably would be worse than before they were rescued because they have been taken out of their native lands and sent to Syria and Greece to be away from the Turks.

The youngsters are being taught farming and trades so they will be self sustaining when they reach maturity.

How to Make Pine Cough Syrup at Home

Has no equal for prompt results. Takes but a moment to prepare, and saves you about $2.

Pine is used in nearly all prescriptions and remedies for coughs. The reason is that pine contains several elements that have a remarkable effect in soothing and healing the membranes of the throat and chest. Pine cough syrups are combinations of pine and syrup. The "syrup" part is usually plain sugar syrup.

To make the best pine cough remedy that money can buy, put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle and fill up with homemade sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you make a full pint more than you can buy ready-made for three times the money. It is pure, good and tastes very pleasant.

You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold in a way that means business. The cough may be dry, hoarse and tight, or may be persistent loose from the formation of phlegm. The cause is the same—infamed membranes—and this Pinex and Syrup combination will stop it—usually in 24 hours or less. Splendid, too, for bronchial asthma, hoarseness, or any ordinary throat ailment.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and is famous the world over for its prompt effect upon coughs.

Beware of substitutes. Ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

DALE BOY MUST KEEP HANDS OFF AUTO FOR A YEAR

Youth Accused Of Driving Car Without License—Speeder Fined

Five days in the county jail and "hands off" the automobile for one year was the sentence imposed by Judge A. M. Spencer in municipal court Monday morning upon Harold Huettl of Dale. Huettl was arrested by Wilbur Bogan, county motorcycle officer, for driving an automobile without a license. He had transferred a license plate to the car without applying for a license. He will not be allowed to use the car for a year except when accompanied by his parents.

Bernard Speay was fined $10 and costs for exceeding the speed limit on state trunk highway 15 in the town of Vandenberg Saturday. He too was arrested by Officer Bogan. He was driving 40 miles an hour at the time, according to the officer.

GROTESQUE FROLICS OF FOOLISH SPIRITS
When spirits transmit messages to us from the Great Beyond, they use odd means and odd methods. They never are candid, as we should expect spirits to be, and they are pitifully incapable, which we should not expect them to be. Writing paper must be provided for them, and ink, or dye, or flowers or leaves which contain coloring, and even then they cannot indite their sentiments—for spirits generally jot down sentiments—without some human assistance. The messages are never much in content, presumably being just long enough to show that the spirits have not forgotten their penmanship lessons or what grammar they happened to learn, and having just enough thought to suggest that the spirits are still competent to think simple thoughts.
Spirits have a characteristic of shyness, acquired since their disincarnation. They are loathe to appear in society in the light of day. When they return in person to earth, as the motion picture stars appear in person before spectators who have seen them only in the gossamer calcium ray, they come suddenly, abruptly in the pitchdark. In contrast to their significant docility in their boisterous behavior on their noisy visitations. They raise a horrible racket, and rock tables and chairs, and touch members of the frightened circle of palefaces with clammy hands. If that sweet other world, to which all of us are traveling with the speeding minutes, is what the demonstrations of spirits imply that it is, at least domains in it must be like madhouses. The spirits whom mediums recall to earth never display sanity. And our reason tells us that the spiritual realm is necessarily the endless spaciousness of perfect sanity.
Spirits who could or would talk to relatives, friends or strangers, or who could or would deliver messages, would speak directly, kindly, to the objects of their interest, and they would not talk nonsense or frivolity. They would not shock any one to whom they would appear or whom they would address, and they would not rattle furniture and charnels, nor dance, nor be absurd or unseemly in their actions. Why should we wish to see any one in the Great Beyond, or converse with any one there? There can be only one of two personal motives, curiosity and selfishness. Desire to behold the mysteries of that undiscovered land is nothing more than curiosity. The supernatural is beyond human understanding. It is superhuman. It is the deepest faith in the utmost hope. The only portal to it is death.

Cleveland Symphony orchestra. Season tickets for these concerts are $2.20 to $6.00.
Lawrence Memorial chapel affords Appleton an opportunity to hear noted artists at popular prices. A seating capacity of more than 1,600 makes it possible to offer our public high class attractions at greatly reduced prices. The chapel has done as much for the musical culture of our people as any other single agency in the city.
Concert and opera have commanded high prices because the capacity of the ordinary theater or hall is limited. Impresarios and artists expect minimum revenue, which is large, and prices are scaled high in order to produce it. More money can be made in large auditoriums by making the prices low and filling all the seats.
Smaller cities can engage stars a little less known than McCormack, Alda and Garden on such terms as to make the prices low. Many stars feel that they can earn more money by working steadily, day after day, on four arrangements, than by singing or playing only a few times a week or month for large remuneration.
Experience in the past with artistic renditions and productions signifies what success can be achieved in popularizing music and culture generally by presenting meritorious performances at low prices.

VARICOSE VEINS
Varicose or dilated veins in any situation are at first simply distended veins, but after prolonged overdistention the veins become permanently swollen, dilated, thickened, elongated and tortuous. They occur most commonly in the lower extremities. Hemorrhoids (piles) are varicose veins. Varicose consists of a small bunch of various veins.
Many factors contribute toward overdistention of the veins and must be considered causes of varicose veins. The factors ordinarily proposed by the patient or friends being much on the feet and strain or hard work, really have little to do with varicose veins. Such presumptive causes are like "overwork" and "nervous breakdown," good enough as alibis or to prevent unpleasant discussion, not to be taken seriously when we are considering hygiene or prevention.
The general causes of varicose enlargement of the veins are:
1. Neglect of physical training.
2. Man's upright posture and pathological dignity.
3. A habit of slouchy posture.
4. Clothing which constricts the body or the limbs.
5. High narrow heels.
6. Pressure upon the veins in the pelvis by tumor or the pregnant womb.
7. Underdeveloped abdominal muscles and insufficient abdominal breathing.
General flabbiness of muscle tissue and the inelasticity common among adults who do not get sufficient daily exercise to maintain bodily vigor predispose to overdistention and dilation of the veins, for the pressure of vigorous, active muscles upon the veins is an important factor in maintaining good circulation.
We've adopted a more or less upright posture, and it is too late to change it now, but we needn't be so stiff about it. We can unbend two or three times a day if even for a few seconds. A string of somersaults, a head stand, or just lie down and roll like a coil. It seems foolish to one with a bottled up temperament, but at that it is infinitely better than psychological pills. Persons too old and enfeebled to attempt these stunts may lie down for a few moments several times a day, with the legs resting on an inclined plane against a wall, to drain the distended veins.
The habit of slouchy posture is almost universal among people whose physical education has been neglected. The habit in early school life. The debilitated slouch, so popular just now, is in part the sorry evidence of a neglected education.
If any part or kind of education should be compulsory for boys and girls, it is physical training. In almost any group of school children from 10 to 15 years of age, the majority will show faults of posture, of general deformities, due to neglect of this branch of education. Only a majority of these children know or have even been taught how to assume an erect posture.
Walking is less deleterious than standing for one with varicose veins. The pressure of muscles upon the veins during a walk, aids the circulation. But as a preventive, when the veins are merely distended, even standing is beneficial, provided the posture is right.

Reval Trains In Operation Once More In Russia
(R. Niedeck, in Dresdner Nachrichten.)
Petrograd costs 600 Esthonian marks, of peace nine years ago the long train for Petrograd is ready to depart from Reval.
A third class trip from Reval to Petrograd costs 600 Esthonian marks, somewhat more in a sleeper. Steamers also connect Reval with the Russian northern capital. However, Russians seem to prefer the compartment trains to steamboats.
Most of the people at Reval station are those who once lived in style in Russia and who now have no definite plans; merely know that the future will never be as good as was the past.
There are a number of Germans in green felt hats, Munich raincoats, rubbers over brown shoes, with slow, sure movements and shaved faces. They are engineers who supervise repairs on Soviet engines and trains.
The Russian Bolshevik does not look so fantastic as some like to picture him. He is not an audacious robber in a ragged garment. Quite the contrary! There is a well-dressed, quiet gentleman at the station who speaks three languages fluently and expresses his views of life convincingly. A German woman asks him something about the Russian Bolsheviks. He smiles, bows and concedes that he himself is a Bolshevik. He gives, cautiously, his opinions on the blessings and the future of Bolshevism. There is some sort of philosophy in what he says.
This Bolshevik discussion is interrupted by boys' voices. Dark green knapsacks appear. Next to the Bolshevik a blond boy is shouting in German, "You know, you aren't in Berlin!" The wanderers are German children leaving for vacations in Esthonia. In Parnau an American boarding school has been founded where German children are taken at the expense of unnamed benefactors.
The Russians shout: "Dovvidanye!" German children crowd the windows of the train and begin a German song. The train starts toward the Soviet frontier.

TWO FLOORS OF GOOD THINGS TO WEAR

GRAIN AND ANTHRACITE RATES
President Coolidge has suggested to Mr. Samuel Rea, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, that the carriers should make preferential freight rates on wheat shipped to the seaboard for export, and that they should cancel the preferential rate on anthracite coal shipped to Canada, this being an export rate. The general public no doubt ratifies the president's recommendations.
There is a large surplus of wheat. In order to enable the farmers to sell this wheat, it is necessary to build up markets in foreign countries. It is impossible to shade the price of wheat without making the loss to wheat farmers larger.
With the carriers it is customary to make low export rates. They increase their tonnage by so doing. Wheat transported from the grain fields to seaboard costs less to handle than wheat hauled to large domestic markets.
In this case the farmers and the railroads would both derive some benefits from a low export rate. The tonnage would be increased. The rate would aid the farmers in closing sales abroad.
There is no apparent reason, in connection with anthracite, why the railroads should apply an export rate into Canada. In this case it is unnecessary to stimulate trade, as anthracite is a monopoly. Why the domestic rate, a high one, should apply to American destinations along the Dominion boundary, while the export rate, a lower one, should apply to Canada, is not apparent.

ESTABLISHING A PRECEDENT
The supreme council of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite Free Masonry for the Southern Jurisdiction set a good example in foregoing the pleasure of calling on President Coolidge and subjecting him to the formality of general handshaking. The chief executive aptly said, in his cordial reply, that, however agreeable the social demands on the president are, they "necessarily" serve to consume time and energy, which, in the present state of the country, may well be devoted to more serious purposes.
Citizens take great delight in meeting the president and shaking hands with him. Large delegations visit him, and he is obliged to shake hands with each person. There are exceptions, which, however gratifying, should not be imposed on the president.

I'm used to spending eight bucks a car.
For a little room with a shower bath.
Three dollars for breakfast, I often pay.
Without exhibiting rapid wrath.
But I despise in a ferry vapor

The holder gratis of a large hotel.
I know them all and I bear them meekly.
It's very seldom I groan or yell.
And if I holler, I holler weakly.
But when an Indian brave I paper
When charged three cents for a two-cent paper.

Doesn't Like Husband Who Is Thrice Married

PATTI HARROLD

New York—Rumors of divorce rumblings started by demure Patti Harrold's petition for a judicial divorce at the court which binds her to Jack McElroy, her actor-husband, have stirred fresh remembrances of the matrimonial jinx which seemingly has haunted the Harrold family for years.

Ever since Fate—or was it Fortune—gave Patti's papa a push from his delivery wagon back in Munich, Ind., a long time ago, the Harrolds have been flitting about from one marriage tower to another without apparently finding one which just suited.

When Papa Harrold dropped his veto to leap to matrimony as a singer, he left two divorced wives behind in the ripple of his success.

Today, he has settled down with a third better half of the "intellectual stimulus" variety, to a life of cows and chickens on a Connecticut farm.

But gay Patti Harrold, however, has had only one adventure. And she now comes forward by affidavit alleging the first time didn't take.

And although admitting "Jack is a peach," she'd just as leave have her romantic colors changed from drab gray to something more cheerful. If you don't mind, Mr. Judge.

SAVED FROM AN OPERATION

Now Recommends Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Washington, D.C.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saved me from an operation which a physician said I would have to have for a very bad case of female trouble. My system was all run-down from overwork and I decided to try it. I could hardly drag one foot after the other, and after taking six bottles of the Vegetable Compound I felt like a new woman. I now do all my housework, also washing and ironing, and do not know what real trouble is. My health is fine, and I weigh 140 pounds. When I started taking it I weighed 97 pounds. I gladly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to any one who is suffering from female trouble or is run down. You may use this testimony for I am only too glad to let suffering women know what the Vegetable Compound did for me."—Mrs. IDA HEWITT, 1523 Penna. Ave. S.E., Washington, D.C.

Such letters from women in every section of this country prove beyond question the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

GEORGE LAPP LOSES BARN AND CROPS IN FARM FIRE MONDAY

Building Becomes Mass Of Flames While Family Is Husking In Field

Special to Post-Crescent: Dale—Much of the work this summer by George Lapp, farmer, living two miles northeast of the village was at a loss when his barn and two sheds were destroyed completely by fire about 5 o'clock Monday afternoon. All of his winter feed for the livestock, including large quantities of hay and grain were consumed and a corn husker and machinery stored in the sheds were ruined.

Mr. Lapp and several helpers were husking corn in a field some distance from the barn, when the flames were seen rising from the structure. The flames had gained such headway when discovered that nothing could be done to save the building. The Dale fire department answered a call to the farm but was unable to do much.

The loss will be several thousand dollars, but the amount has not been determined by Mr. Lapp. It is covered partially by insurance. Origin of the fire is not known.

Mr. Lapp's corn fodder, of which the silo adjoining the barn was full, was not consumed, because the silo is of concrete. The residence also is of concrete block construction and was not threatened.

All of the livestock was out of the building before the fire started.

LOTS OF COMEDY IN OPERETTA TO BE SUNG BY GRADS

Cast Begins Rehearsal Of Second Act Of "The House Of Shah"

Kaukauna—Rehearsals are being held every other day for the musical comedy "The House of Shah" which will be presented by alumni of the high school in the city auditorium in November. Since the cast was definitely chosen about a week ago progress toward learning parts has been rapid and at the regular practice Monday evening work on the second act was begun.

The operetta consists of three acts, the scenes of which are laid in a Persian garden. There are eight speaking characters in addition to a large chorus of soldiers, attendants and natives. Rehearsals are under the direction of Miss Florence Kohn, supervisor of music in the city schools.

The story of the play in brief is as follows: Ted Harding and Billy Cummings, American mining engineers, with their colored body servant Sam, come to Persia to work in the Shah's gold mine. Ted falls in love with Zohdiah, the Shah's daughter, while Billy becomes attached to Lohlah, Zohdiah's intimate friend. Meanwhile, the Persian girl's old nurse, pursues the affections of the colored Sam much to his discomfort.

But the Shah has other plans for his daughter's future and he returns to his harem with Somerabeh, an Arab sheik, whom he wishes Zohdiah to marry. As the story unfolds the sheik is found to be selling under false colors and is given the air while at the same time the Americans and their servants are thrown into prison. Nowah, the old nurse, who believes she has powers of a sorceress, makes the Shah see that by keeping the engineers in the country he can not work his high gold mine and he consents to their release and to the marriage.

Most of the cast has been chosen from the combined talent which produced the three successful operettas of the high school during the last three years. The characters follow: Lohlah, Zohdiah's friend and confidante, played by Laura Mae Zohdiah, the Persian Rose, played by Cecilia Graf, Zohdiah's old nurse, played by Olive Jacobson, Ted Harding, American mining engineer, played by M. A. Trams, Billy Cummings, Ted's close friend, played by John Parent.

Samuel Johnson Jackson, gentleman of color, who has no part in the operetta, played the Arab sheik, played by Elmer Grimmer.

Keep Away From Worries If You Would Enjoy Trip Abroad, Traveler Advises

S. G. Ruegg Sums Up Requirements For Enjoyable Visit To Europe—Don't Try To See Too Much

BY S. G. RUEGG

A trip abroad! That is the cherished hope of the normal individual. It is the result of an insatiable craving for knowledge and adventure. We all want to know how the world is getting on. Nothing must escape us. Newspapers, books, lectures will do to go ourselves. A little geographical fragment will not satisfy. We want to see a continent and then two continents. This is the divine hunger for the world. We love Wisconsin. There is no state like it. The Englishman loves England, the German loves his land and his home province. But "God so loved the WORLD." Travel therefore is an annexation of a new area of interest. It is nearly as good as a college education if planned right.

How to plan for a foreign trip, what to take along, how to manage on reduced resources, what to see and how to profit most by a foreign journey is partially answered in this story. Much depends on the individual. You see with the power you bring with you to see. It is good to have a historical background of the countries you go to. Most of us do not know much history. It pays well to do some reading before hand and take brief notes. Some times it is well to have the standard guide books before you start. The Boedeker has been the world wide book for centuries. Since the war these editions are not up to date for everything has been more or less jumbled and new ones are not out. One therefore is best off to wait till you appear on the ground to get the latest guides. English editions can be found in all countries particularly of cities and historic places.

TAKE ALONG A DIARY

Your first equipment should be a note book or diary. It is a task to keep a diary on the road if you are not accustomed to it. The writer has kept one for 25 years. Half of the diary is for notes aside from any itinerary. Every traveler should specialize on one or two things. The traveler is interested in it. He is interested in selling goods let him gather details on the stories of Europe and methods and ways of selling goods. He will be called on to give a talk and should have the information jotted down. Five-sixths of what one sees escapes the memory unless well noted.

Do not take much luggage. It is the bane of the traveler. Most of us carry too much. Europe has not the checking systems on railways that we have and baggage is a nuisance. Unless you do public work and have to appear before men reduce your wardrobe. Use old underwear for the ocean and give it to the fishes before you land. It carries ocean smells and boat smells entirely too freely. Buy some things over there. You will enjoy the tonic of European shopping and get many things much cheaper. Some of us would advise only one suit for men, and maybe a khaki suit for roughing it on boat or if you do mountain climbing; maybe an extra pair of pants. Women should have a good traveling suit; by all means one that does not show dirt or wear. It is a foolish idea to go on dress parade. It is best to travel second class for in first class, dinners and luncheons seem to demand dinner gowns. Knickerbockers are not popular in Europe but Europeans tolerate women of America because they are noted for breaking conventionalities.

KEEP DOWN APPEARANCES

Take a little medicine kit, have your doctor put up pills. Keep pills, medicines, rouge, toilet articles etc. in a special grip all by itself. It is so much more handy and the main suitcase does not have to be disturbed. A steamer trunk should be avoided unless you aim to purchase various things abroad. Wicker suit cases are the most serviceable. They are not so heavy but of course do not stand the banging a leather one does. The leather ones are more costly at home. You are governed largely by your baggage and your fees multiply. A folding handbag is good to put in the left overs, after you have packed all and found you have forgotten the rubbers. Take a photograph or two of your own especially if you travel alone.

PENNIES ARE HANDY

Take a dollar's worth of American pennies with Indian heads on them. They are the most inexpensive souvenirs the American can bring. Children are very fond of them. They are distinctively American. Get new ones if you can. The Lincoln penny will do for every one in Europe who knows about Abraham Lincoln and his inestimable life. Have an American flag too. It may protect you. Of course you get an American passport. It will cost you $11 and to have it vised will cost something more. One passport for husband and wife will do. Our last passport cost us $55 before we got home going to various foreign countries. Your photograph has to be on it. The secretary of state issues it. It comes in booklet form. You cannot go anywhere in Europe now without it, and you have to carry it on your person day and night. It is a nuisance but that need be the least of your troubles.

It pays to travel together if you have the right traveling companions. The most ideal party is one of five. Some of us think that the most ideal party is one of two, a husband and wife. There are such parties. It is not ideal however, if the interest of either are wide apart. Then a tramp abroad becomes very irksome. In travel selfishness comes out if there is any and most of us

REPORT FRIDAY ON NEW STOVE PLANT

Public Meeting Will Be Called In Interest Of Prospective Industry

All Appleton people who are interested in bringing new industries to the city will be invited to attend a meeting Friday evening at which the citizens' committee will make a report on the possibility of moving the Triumph Stove & Heater Co. plant from Milwaukee here. The place is to be announced later.

The committee will present a report on its investigation of the company and its self-feeding soft coal heater. Combustion engineers who analyzed the heating possibilities of the stove also will relate their findings.

Reports on the industry are quite favorable and steps probably will be taken at this meeting to capitalize the company and decide on a suitable location for a factory.

HUNTING GOOD ON LITTLE LAKE AND AT FREMONT

Ducks are numerous on Little Lake Butte Des Morts and Fremont according to local hunters. At the former place there is a bombardment nearly every morning and very few hunters return empty handed.

ize on churches and country homes. A kodak is a great thing to follow up one line. My hobby used to be smoke stacks on European engines also various pumps in country places as well as fountains. Babies are always interesting; one could find lots of photos to take of these interesting creatures. Architecture of churches or public buildings is a fine study; so are industrial plants or bridges across rivers. Paris is remarkable for the Seine has not one bridge duplicated in the whole city. Folks of course are the most interesting of all and what they wear and how they do and what they think of us Americans and our foreign tour are a continual round of pleasure if you resolve not to do three things: find fault with each other, with the weather or the hotels. Keep your mind free from mental debris and enjoy the unusual even the accidents if you are not in a personally conducted party you have more chance to initiate and to be yourself. It is emblematic of all life which is an adventure. It is typical of the adventure into character as well as religion. Some want a well outlined tour personally conducted, with little thinking and no hazards, others like the moral, intellectual and spiritual tonic of liberty of choice and greater expansion. Thus a journey abroad simply reflects the kind of folk we are at home for all of life is a journey and adventure ending up with the great adventure beyond the veil where endless vistas are waiting for exploration and conquest by those unafraid and full of faith.

Habit Blinds Autoist To New Arterial Signs

Most autoists believe in signs, but those who are creatures of habit do not. To prove this one had only to stand at the corner of College-ave and Oneida-st Monday and watch observance of the arterial highway rules there.

For the last several weeks signs had been erected only at the south Oneida-st intersection and the east College-ave approach, leaving traffic from the north and west free to proceed unhampered. Monday morning city employees put up the other two signs, making a stop necessary at all four corners.

Autoists were blind to this change, however. Those approaching from the south or east all stopped as habit had taught them. But those from the other directions, especially drivers eastbound on College-ave, sailed through without ever knowing a sign warned them to stop.

Of course when the traffic officer was on duty there were reminders of the violation, and some drivers who passed that way two or three times finally woke up to their unconscious infraction.

The highway law is quite well obeyed, but it is not uncommon to see drivers either wilfully ignore signs when no other traffic is around, or momentarily forget the arterial regulations. Some autoists do not know the police definition of a stop, however, because they only slow down to a near stop and then speed on.

BANDITS HOLD UP CROSSROADS STORE

Police in Fox river valley are looking for two well dressed young men, who robbed the cash register in the general store at Gillingham's corner between Oshkosh and Neenah, Sunday evening. One of the men pointed a revolver at Mrs. F. Gillingham, proprietor, while the other scooped about $15 out of the cash drawer. The bandits escaped in an automobile.

Mrs. Gillingham had plenty of opportunity to get a description of the men because they were in the store several minutes before they attacked the cash register. The robbery occurred shortly after 5 o'clock Sunday evening while Mrs. Gillingham was alone in the store.

STOP AT ARTERY STREETS. POLICE WARN MOTORISTS

Arrests Will Result If Drivers
Fail To Heed Traffic
Signs

Motorists are warned to comply with the provisions of the arterial highway ordinance in an official notice published Tuesday by George T. Pumm, chief of police.

While observance of the arterial highway regulations has in general been quite satisfactory to the police and city officials' non-compliance on the part of the persistently disobedient has aroused the authorities to a decision of strict enforcement. The ordinance has been in effect long enough so that every one should be thoroughly familiar with the regulations and the penalty for violation, it is held.

Arterial highways, located on parts of College, Oakdale, North, Franklin, Lawrence and Pearl, are arteries for through traffic. Every vehicle must first come to a full stop before crossing or driving onto an arterial highway under penalty of a $25 fine or 30 days' imprisonment. "Any future violation of these provisions of Ordinance No. 219 will result in prompt prosecution," the notice declares.

ON THE SCREEN

MARY PICKFORD AFFORDED UNUSUAL OPPORTUNITIES

In "Through the Back Door," Mary Pickford's forthcoming United Artists' release, this clever little artist will be afforded an opportunity for the display of talent equalled only in such previous productions as "Pollyanna" and "Daddy Long Legs." Arrangements were recently completed by Manager Frank Cook, of the new Bijou theatre to show this production Wednesday and Thursday. It is the first picture in which Little Mary ever worked under the guidance of two directors. Alfred E. Green and Mary's brother Jack sponsored this production, and the result of their combined efforts is said to prove further the truth of old adage, "Two heads are better than one."

The outstanding feature of "Through the Back Door" is the delightful comedy consequences scattered throughout the picture. In a little girl role Miss Pickford has a chance to become involved in innumerable complications all provocative of mirth, yet touched with pathos, which stamps this greatest of all in genres as mistress of her art.

In addition to the clean, wholesome fun with which this feature abounds, there is found running through it a counterplot of gripping drama, in which alial devotion becomes a dominant factor. The struggle of a child to win recognition from her mother and the seemingly insurmountable obstacles that intervene furnish the motivating impulse for the story. Professional blackmailers, a designing "other woman," a "misunderstood" husband and an "abused" wife all play their respective parts in this unusual photoplay which opens in picturesque Belgium, then jumps to Long Island and closes in business-like New York.

RICHARD BARTHELMESS ONE OF HAPPIEST MEN

Richard Barthelmess is one of the happiest men in motion pictures. Happy because he has achieved stardom, happy because there are no long waits between his pictures, happy because he is being exploited with an infinite variety of roles, and happy because his producer-director is casting his pictures with highly talented players.

This last cause for happiness indicates that this young star has a great deal of native intelligence. His own particular role might stand out more prominently were his supporting players of mediocre ability—but his pictures would suffer, and his own fame decline. Mary, an egotistical star has seen his or her popularity dwindle as the result of too much self in

CIVIL WAR VETERAN DIES AT SEYMOUR

Burial Of Charles H. Smith
Takes Place Tuesday
Afternoon There

Special to Post-Crescent
Seymour—Funeral services were held at the home of Jay Sherwood here at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon for Charles H. Smith, 74, who died there Saturday. The Rev. G. W. Lester was in charge. Burial was made in Seymour cemetery. Bearers were William Luedke, Joseph Swan, Fred Stellmacher, William Helms, Charles Benedict and Adam Shier, the Methodist church choir sang.

Mr. Smith suffered a paralytic stroke several years ago, which deprived him of the use of his left arm. He received a second stroke two and a half years ago. His health had been failing since that time.

The decedent was born in Portland, Maine, Nov. 28, 1848. His parents died when he was six years old and he lived with his uncle for a number of years. Most of his life was devoted to engineering and farming. He enlisted Feb. 18, 1865 in the Northern army as a private in Company G, Forty-ninth Wisconsin regiment, and was discharged Aug. 14, 1865 because of disability.

He joined John Granzo post of the Grand Army of the Republic at Seymour Nov. 19, 1885.

Mr. Smith was married to Mahala Smith May 19, 1881 at Seymour. They took up residence on a farm two miles east of Seymour, living there for 13 years, after which they sold the farm and moved to Seymour. Mrs. Smith died in March, 1920.

The survivors are four children, Mrs. Oliver Bailey, Ed Lake, Mrs. Arthur Forsner, Wisconsin Rapids; Harrison and Mrs. Jay Sherwood, Seymour seven grandchildren. One child died in infancy and another, Lawrence, died Sept. 21, 1919.

BUILDING PERMITS

Value of construction in Appleton for this season was boosted from $1,623,275 to $1,631,633 by the issuance of two building permits from the city engineer's office. One of the permits was for the erection of a new home, the 201st of the season.

The permits are as follows:
G. E. Pelton, Bellabrook residence, Harry H. Long, 577 Walnut, casement.

The picture, that, to a greater extent than poor stories, has withered many a promising career.

As an example of cast selection for a Richard Barthelmess picture, "The Fighting Blade," his newest.

First National picture, the feature of his half of week's program at Elite Theatre might be instance. This is a John S. Robertson production based on the conflict between the cavaliers and the roundheads, or the forces of the king, Charles I. and Oliver Cromwell. Names that were familiar to the picture-going public were as naught to Mr. Robertson, unless those names had back of them true historic skill or ability. Thus it is that the cast includes such celebrities as Dorothy McCall, who has achieved enviable success on the stage and screen, is playing opposite Mr. Barthelmess; Lee Baker, celebrated as leading man for Minnie Maddern Pike, Bertha Kalish and other stars of the legitimate stage, who makes his debut on the screen in this picture; Morgan Wallace, just back from a triumph in London in "Lawful Larceny"; Frederick Burton, a veteran character actor; Philo Tread, Bradley Barker, Walter Horton, Marjola Harlow, and the famous Follies beauty, "Don King."

Mr. Robertson personally directed the picture, Everett Shinn, famous artist, is the art director who is credited with having reproduced English settings of the 17th century with marvelous skill.

RHINE MUDDLE IS FINAL TEST OF PARIS CLAN

Premature Recognition Of Republic Would Betray French Collusion

which pledges the nations to respect each other's territorial integrity can be legally invoked but attention can be called to the spirit of the pledge by the Germans in an appeal to world opinion, and they will not hesitate to characterize it as a violation of German sovereignty.

Should an investigation ever disclose French complicity in this plan of the Rhineland republic—and there would be little difficulty proving it according to evidence from abroad—Germany would be in a position to appeal to the permanent court of international justice some day for damages. That would be an easy procedure now if Germany had been admitted to the League of Nations.

AMERICA WILL WAIT
From what little is said in officialdom here, it is plain that the United States government isn't going to leap into premature recognition of the Rhineland republic and that the United States will wait to see whether a stable government can be organized and whether Great Britain and the other powers who have been entrusted with the administration of the Rhineland through special commissioners will recognize the new republic.

Should the Berlin government send troops to the Rhineland to suppress the uprising, it would be civil war. Recognition from the outside may be an untried, but it doesn't become a hostile act until troops and munitions are furnished to support the rebellious state. Great Britain recognized the belligerency of the south during the American civil war but went no further. Should the French and Belgians furnish troops and supplies, this would be an act of war against Germany.

There is no doubt that the German situation is daily growing worse from the view point of world stability, and the Rhineland complication together with the defection of Poland and Bavaria may alter the entire European problem as it has been developing since the war. For a disintegrated Germany will not furnish reparations, and without reparations France has said in effect, she would not pay her war debt to the United States. American policy has undergone no change as yet. It is still one of watchful neutrality with the hope today as in 1914 that the conflagration will not reach American shores.

USE EMPTY TIN CANS TO SALVAGE COPPER

Scrap Iron Is Part Of Process For Recovering Red Metal From Water

By Associated Press
Phoenix, Ariz. The business of "turning tin cans into copper," as the process is popularly described, is reaching large proportions in Arizona.

The process, which actually consists in recovering copper from water through the use of scrap iron, which displaces the copper in solution, is by no means new, but has been extended and improved in recent years so that several hundred carloads of tin cans, as well as large quantities of scrap iron are now shipped to Arizona mining centers each year.

At most of the mining centers in the state the process is subordinate to main mining operations, being used merely to extract the copper from water seepage pumped from the mines. This water contains a small quantity of copper, less than two tenths of one per cent, in solution. The water is run through sluices where scrap iron has been placed. Part of the iron goes into the water and the copper is deposited in the bottom of the sluices and is collected at intervals. The process is valuable principally on account of the low expense involved.

At Ajo, a mining camp in the southwestern part of the state, the principle has been extended and the scrap iron method is used as one step in the electrolytic process of extracting copper from ore. The process, according to mining men, is not confined to Arizona mines but is also used in Montana and Utah.

Since the object is to get scrap iron with as much surface as possible in proportion to its weight, tin cans, which are actually made of iron and not tin, answer the purpose admirably.

Most of the tin cans are shipped in from Arizona and Southern California cities, although some shipments are also made from eastern states.

Concert Stars May Be Heard For 50 Cents In Cleveland's Community Building

Cleveland, O.—This city has gone into the impresario business. It is staging a series of concerts, featuring some of the world's highest-priced operatic and concert stars.

And 50 cents will buy a reserved seat! For 50 cents, Clevelanders will be able to hear John McCormack, Mary Garden or any of a number of other stars who have thrilled audiences the world over.

All this is brought about through the efforts of Lincoln G. Dickey, manager of Cleveland's public auditorium.

DICKEY'S DREAM
Dickey dreamed a dream of filling Cleveland's vast auditorium—a hall capable of seating 12,500 persons—with great audiences, while world-famous singers and musicians poured out their golden notes for a price within reach of everyone.

He fought a fight against precedent—against a veritable trust. Concert managers told him it had never been done, that it was impossible.

That was his fight—a fight for the people. And this is the announcement of his victory:

"THE CITY OF CLEVELAND PRESENTS JOHN MCCORMACK, MARY GARDEN, JOHN CHARLES THOMAS, MME. FRANCES ALDA AND OTHER STARS—SEASON TICKETS $2.50 TO $5.00—SINGLE TICKETS 50 CENTS UP."
Last year all the concerts of any worth were put on by professional impresarios. They were dictated to by New York managers of stars. They were forced to guarantee fixed sums. They were left very little profit. Dickey, who spent years in the Chautauqua business and the concert game before he assumed the management of Cleveland's mammoth auditorium, believed that plan was all wrong.

He had no fight against local producers; he carried his battle to New York. And he won!

NO GUARANTEES

Mccormack, Garden and the others come here without any guarantee. They get their percentage of the ticket sales. Dickey handles the scaling of his ticket prices.

And that's not all. To prove that he has no intention of hurting the business of Cleveland's professional impresarios, Dickey insisted that all concert stars coming to Cleveland's auditorium under the management of local producers give the same terms to the individual promoters as they would have to give the city.

Thus Cleveland, through Dickey's endeavors, is in a fair way to enjoy a large quota of choice entertainment at prices heretofore thought impossible. Anybody may buy the tickets. There is no club membership such as other institutions require. The highest priced season ticket costs no more than a single grandstand seat at a world series.

REAL STARS

This is Dickey's program:

Oct. 25: John McCormack and a violinist.

Nov. 25: Mary Garden and Guita Casini, cellist.

Dec. 16: John Charles Thomas, baritone; the Cleveland Symphony Orchestra and Ference Vecsey, violinist.

Dec. 30: Metropolitan Quartet with Frances Alda, soprano; Charles Hackett, tenor; Renato Zanelli, baritone, and one other artist, in addition to the Cleveland Symphony, itself worth the price of admission.

"They don't like me in New York," says Dickey. "In fact, they hate me like poison. I'm afraid."

But they think pretty well of Dickey in Cleveland. The public auditorium, built by the taxpayers, was dedicated to the people's use. And Dickey is doing a good job of dedicating.

PLAN NEW ATTACKS ON SMOKE NUISANCE

Pittsburg—The smoke investigation, begun by the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research of the University of Pittsburg in 1912 and temporarily concluded in 1914, will be resumed immediately under the direction of Dr. Harry B. Mellon, who has resigned as dean of the school of mines, to take up the work.

Systematic surveys of smoke conditions in Pittsburg, Chicago, Cleveland and other industrial cities will be carried on. They will be made up of comparative analysis, smoke, dust and soot; contaminations; research into the manufacture of "smokeless" fuel by especially low temperature carbonization of bituminous coal, and investigation of physical means of abating the smoke nuisance, with particular reference to electrostatic precipitation or smoke.

The survey work has been started with the installation and operation of apparatus for the determination of the smoke content of the air. This phase of the investigation will be continued for a considerable period in a number of cities at the same time. Bulletins will be issued in order that the public may be informed.

BURGLARS ENTER THREE BEAR CREEK STORES; GET $12

Village Marshal Believes Robberies Are Work Of "Home Talent"

Three stores in Bear Creek were entered by burglars Monday night, but the entire loot taken therefrom amounted to no more than $12. Only the tills or money drawers were robbed. As far as could be ascertained, no merchandise was stolen.

The stores pilfered were the A. W. Kuefeler hardware store, the S. F. Liesbeth hardware store and the Bear Creek Mercantile store. The burglars left no clew and it cannot be determined how many there were of them. Albert Lerga, village marshal, is investigating the cases.

One of the promoters of the hardware store said he had received warning through the mails that hardware stores are being looted throughout the state. The burglars appeared to be the work of "home talent," however.

Entrance to the Kuefeler store was gained through a window in the rear of the store. Change amounting to about $11 was stolen from one of the money drawers. Nothing else was found missing.

About 50 to 60 cents in pennies is all that is missing from the Liesbeth hardware store. It was all that was left in the money drawer. The burglars entered through a pane in the front door which they had broken. They had tried to cut the glass with a glass cutter.

A till in the Bear Creek Mercantile store was broken but all that was taken was 35 cents. The burglars had tampered with the safe, however. They entered this store through a cellar window.

HASTY CONCLUSION LOSES FAT FEE TO PARIS DOCTOR

By Associated Press

Paris — A Paris surgeon is telling a good story against himself. He was called in to operate an American woman for appendicitis, and when the cure was complete the patient, seeking to show her gratitude in some way that was not too commonplace, embroidered a cigar case and took it to the surgeon.

Unfortunately the surgeon had just had a run of patients who had paid for his services by presents of little intrinsic value, so he could not help saying, "No, really. Madame take away such rubbish; a thousand francs not would be much more acceptable."

"All right," said the American woman, opening the cigar case she drew a thousand franc bill from it, laid it on the table, and said coolly, "There were five others like it in the case."

LEG BROKEN THREE TIMES IN ACCIDENT

Rollo Parker, yard foreman of the Harten sawmill at New London had both legs broken when he was crushed between the log slip and a load of lumber at the sawmill at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning. The load of lumber broke loose from the tramway, pinning the foreman beneath.

The injured man was rushed to St. Elizabeth hospital in this city. He is badly bruised and one leg is broken in three places. The accident, it is said, was the fault of no one, the ties of the tramway having broken from the weight of the lumber.

Buck Starts Drilling Blue And White Eleven For Game With Cornell

Cornell Has Practically Same
Lineup As Last Year: Defeated
Hamline And Grinnell This Season

Coach "Cub" Buck of Lawrence Monday afternoon started his battered first string off on another week of drill in preparation for Friday's game with Cornell here. It is a custom of that college to play all football games on Friday, and the Blue and White bowed to it as a matter of courtesy. Lawrence fought hard Saturday to retain its grasp on the Little Five championship which it has held for three years, but was outplayed by Beloit. Kotai and Boettcher showed up best in that contest, but the rest of the Lawrence men apparently were in a trance during most of the game. They depended chiefly on sheer physical strength for their gains, which availed them little against the heavier Beloit line. The few passes attempted with Kotai on the receiving end netted considerable gains. There was much more fumbling than is seen in the average games of teams of the Blue and White calibre, and Buck is attempting to teach his men to hang on the ball.

CORNELL HAS STRONG TEAM

Cornell has practically the same team it had a year ago when it was defeated by a close margin in its contest with the Blue and White, and judging from the results of games played this season, the squad has improved greatly. A week ago, Cornell shut out Hamline college, 32 to 0, and last Saturday humbled Grinnell, 17 to 15. The men outwitted Coach Buck's charges considerably, and have developed a strong aerial attack. Buck will drill his men with an eye to that fact, and is strengthening his lineup generally for a hard battle.

Four Stars On Notre Dame's Grid

BROWN

During the last three years of football campaigning Notre Dame has always presented one of the big stars of the game as the pivot point of its team. Gipp, Mohardt and Castner were grouped in advance. Components learned to prepare for the Notre Dame star.

This year the Irish squad faces its greatest season. Georgia Tech, Purdue, Nebraska, Butler and Carnegie Tech will be faced on consecutive Saturdays.

Needing a Gipp, Mohardt, or Castner as he never did before, Coach Rockne is without a man who looms big against the rest of the backfield.

Jimmy Crowder, Dutch Bergman, Max Houser and Elmer Layden are the candidates for the triple-threat position. Crowder, Bergman and Houser are working out at the left half, while Gipp and Mohardt made famous. Layden stepped into Castner's place at fullback when the latter was hurt last season.

Crowder, a product of East Green Bay high school, is the man of the quarter most fragrant with possibilities. In the early season games of last year's campaign he gave promise of being one of the big fishes of the season. His work retarded as teams began to lay for him, but against Nebraska and Carnegie Tech he performed with his old-time brilliancy. He kicks and passes well.

Layden is a smooth man with a run, kick or pass. Bergman is a good runner, good passer, but a poor kicker. Houser is a new man who has not yet been tried under fire.

Nor are all the star prospects located in the backfield. In Captain Brown Notre Dame has one of the finest guards in the land. Marfl, end, is a star of great value on the defense and offense. Rip Miller, of the famous Miller family of footballers, has few superiors in the west as a tackle.

ORIOLES' RALLY BEATS KAWS, 10-9 IN FINAL STANZA

Little World Series Prolonged By Baltimore's Win In Seventh Game

Baltimore—The Orioles prolonged the little world series by winning the seventh game from Kansas City at Oriole park Monday afternoon, 10 to 9.

Five runs behind, when they came in for their final bats, the Blues flashed a thrilling five run rally, tying the score and knocking Lefty Groves from the rubber. Tommy Thomas was rushed to the rescue and stopped the run making after allowing one hit.

Baltimore, however, came back in the ninth and scored the necessary run to win. Wilkinson, who had been sent in after a pinch hitter had batted for Zinn, started badly by walking Maisel. Porter singled over short and Sheely was hit, filling the bases.

Bishop rounded to Hammond and Maisel was forced out at the plate. With two strikes and no balls, Styles dropped a Texas leaguer back of second, scoring porter with the winning run.

Displaying more pep and punch than at any other time in the series, the Orioles played the Blues off their feet in the early stages of the game. Lefty Schupp was batted from the box and Zinn, who followed him, fared little better. Styles, Porter, Bishop and Lawry hit homers for the winners, while Brief banged the ball out of the lot for Kansas City in the stirring inning with two men on the bases. Good and Scott also made homers for the Blues.

A cold and biting wind blew across the field all during the game, making it uncomfortable for both players and spectators. Monday's attendance was the smallest of the series, only 1,557 paying $2,520.60 to see the game.

The series now stands four for Kansas City and three for Baltimore.

SPORT VIEWS AND NEWS

The Minnesota Gophers will be the next stumbling block on the Wisconsin schedule and it is probable that the Gophers will be a much harder nut to crack than the Indiana Hoosiers were last Saturday. The Badger coach has moulded together a sweet looking backfield, topped off by a heady quarter. His odds are coming through nicely while the line, from tackle to tackle, worked superbly in the game against Indiana.

As was expected the London papers are beginning to chirp in an abused tone about Zev's victory in the international classic against Papyrus. The English horse. Rough going, the trip aboard ship, and the change of climate are being played to the skies by the Britishers in explaining why Papyrus didn't bring home the bacon. Somehow or another, the Londoners have a hard time taking a defeat smilingly.

According to the reports, they nearly had to call state police to quell the disturbance at the Escanaba-Menominee football game on Saturday. After the Menominee team walked off the field, following a disputed decision the rival rooting delegations looked daggers at each other, etc. etc. However, cooler heads prevailed and the storm blew over but it is a safe bet that athletics relations between the schools have been torn.

MICHIGAN COACH FROWNS ON INTERSECTIONAL GAMES

Ann Arbor, Mich.—The Vanderbilt-Michigan game will probably be dropped when next year's schedule is drawn. It was indicated at the office of Fielding H. Yost, director of athletics at the University of Michigan, on Monday. The game played Oct. 12, when Michigan defeated the Commodores, 3 to 0, completed the two year contract between the two schools. Yost has expressed himself as opposed to intersectional contests, while word has been received here that Vanderbilt is considering replacing the Wolverines on their schedule with an eastern team, probably Yale.

MARQUETTE WORKS HARD TO PREPARE FOR BOSTON GAME

Secret Practice Is Order Of Day For Coach Murray's Grid Stars

Milwaukee—Coach Frank J. Murray of Marquette university marshaled his forces on the Hilltop campus on Monday and started final preparation for next Saturday's intersectional clash with Boston college in Boston.

The Marquaymen will have a big task on the few days of practice that they get this week. The Carroll game on Saturday, which Marquette won, 15 to 0, must be rehearsed and its faults ironed out. Then, and more important, there will be dummy defense work on Boston college plays as reported by Assistant Coach Lloyd Scott, who watched Maj. Frank Cavanaugh's eastern Eagles triumph over Canisius on Saturday.

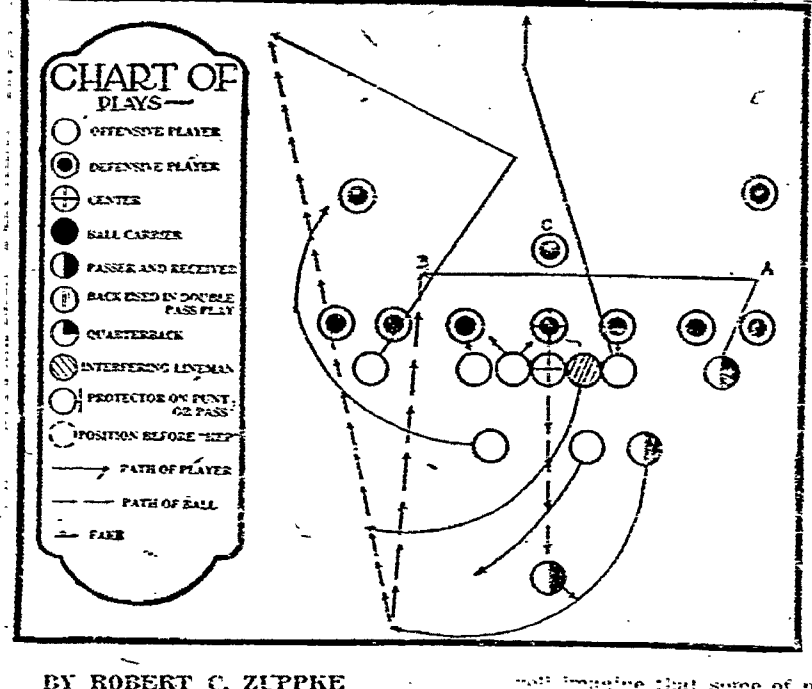

HAVE CLEAN SLATES

Both Marquette and Boston college have gone through the season thus far without defeat and without being scored on, indicating that Saturday's game will be a hard fought battle. Marquette may be counted on to open up an aerial attack, a department which has been greatly strengthened within the last two weeks. With Leichtfuss or Demolish holding the ball, Red Dunn's toe may prove to be the deciding factor in the engagement. On Saturday, with amateurs holding the oval, he missed a trio of place kicks, but one may be sure, all the reg will be in the Boston game.

This week's workouts will be conducted in secrecy.

Boston—Lee Fohl, former manager of the St. Louis Browns has consented to manage the Boston Red Sox during the 1924 season, succeeding Frank Chance. President Robert Quinn of the Boston American League club announced.

Platter Play Is Gray With Age, Yet Much Used by Many Teams

BY ROBERT C. ZIPKKE
Football Coach, University of Illinois
Author of "Football Technique and Tactics"

The usual thrower makes believe he is about to throw, holding the ball up and back of him somewhat as a waiter holds a platter, and another back, running around to the rear of him, snatches the ball for the purpose of encircling the drawn-in ends and tackles of the defense or actually throwing it to a designated receiver.

The direction of the run from A to E is determined by the position of defensive back C.

At the appropriate moment, it might break up many a game. I have seen it work havoc with the best of them. After the fake pass we will come on Play No. 9, a forward pass after triple pass.

Newark—Harry Greb of Pittsburgh, middleweight champion, defeated Lo Bogash of Bridgeport, Conn., by a shade in a 12 round no-decision bout according to a decision of newspaper men.

Appleton High Grid Squad Gets Ready For Hardest Game Of Year

Marmette Has Won 5 Straight Games This Season And Is Making Strong Try For Championship

Undeclared despite the fact that the team is composed entirely of men, to never played interscholastic football before this season Appleton High is pointing toward the hardest test of the schedule in which it takes Marmette in that school's own yard. The Purple and White squad has won five consecutive victories this season, and seems to be entering toward the championship of a High School conference. Coach David Wilson is taking no chances on Saturday's contest, and will drill his string as long as the sun can be seen. As his team is in the best of health, he plans to develop a aerial attack more fully, and to test Marmette's propensity to use of runs to a large extent, tackling will also occupy a large part of the team's drill. In this regard, the Purple and White is particularly dangerous, and also has an educated toe. Last Saturday in the game with East Troy, the Purple and White won by a score of 35 to 0. The game was a tough one, and toward the end of the contest the Purple and White played an excellent game, fighting every minute against their heavier rivals at West Troy. The Purple and White's line was practically impenetrable. Blier and Baehne seem to be natural grid players, and should go far with the Purple and White. The Purple and White's coach Wilson, as to the rest of the team, the boys are all working hard and show the result of their few weeks' experience in their greatly improved play.

APPLETON GOING GOOD

It would be difficult to choose a particular star from the Appleton team. All of the men played an excellent game, fighting every minute against their heavier rivals at West Troy. DON'T BLAME RADIO

Did you ever believe you, yourself, might be the cause of poor radio reception?

Yes, radio isn't altogether to blame. A German experimenter, Prof. Martin Gildemeister, traces poor reception at times to the human ear, according to the Journal of the American Medical association.

Gildemeister concludes that it all depends on the health of an individual. The acuteness of hearing, he points out, varies from day to day in accordance with the health of the person. So that when you're feeling good and you get particularly good results from your set, perhaps it is due to better hearing.

Another significant point is that higher tones can be heard on good health days than on poor health days. Sometimes, Gildemeister says, the difference is as high as 200 vibrations a second.

RADIO, DETECTIVE

Scientists may find a way to learn the ultimate, basic construction of all matter, through the aid of radio. The discovery that atoms send out other waves of certain definite wavelengths leads some to believe a fine radio instrument might discover the source from which the waves come.

RADIO CURES

Now radio is found as an aid to the cure of convalescent patients. That isn't new, because the old medicine doctors of the Indians used to practice the charms of music on their sick, reports the Bureau of Ethnology.

INGLER DESCRIBES BUSINESS SCIENCE

Business forecasting is a science, based on a knowledge of economic laws. Dr. F. M. Ingler of Lawrence college told the Lions at their weekly luncheon in the Conway hotel Monday noon. Dr. Ingler declared that science has done less for business than for almost any other endeavor.

The aim and purpose of science, he declared, is to gather facts upon which it will be possible to control or predict the future. Business forecasting is the art of collecting data of what has transpired and studying it in the light of economic laws in order to predict what can be expected in the future.

Insurance companies base their premium charges on a knowledge of what has taken place in the past. Dr. Ingler said. He also told how scientists in various fields are able to predict what will happen from what they know of the past.

Attorney James H. McGowan of Green Bay, is to be the chief speaker at the club's meeting next Monday, a program appropriate to national Navy day will be arranged.

HIGHWAY 55 OPEN WITHIN TWO WEEKS

Lampert Construction company of Oshkosh has just completed a ten-mile stretch of concrete highway beginning at Eden, Wis., and extending southeast on highway 55 towards Campbellsport. With the exception of a two mile interval at Eden, where the shoulders are in course of construction, the highway is open to the public.

This gives an all concrete road from Appleton to Milwaukee by way of Oshkosh, Fond du Lac, Campbellsport and West Bend. The entire new section will be opened to traffic in about ten days or two weeks, it is believed.

THE FOOL

The dramatic sensation of a generation will be presented to Post-Crescent readers as a novel. It is the story of a young man of wealth who undertook to live, literally, in accordance with the New Testament's teachings. He lost fortune, love, social standing, almost life itself in pursuit of an ideal. Did it pay? "The Fool" thought it did. The reader who follows this story will be able to judge for himself.

More than one hundred clergymen have made it the text of sermons. Pollock has been asked to discuss it before more than 300 universities, schools, clubs and churches. It is novelized by

THE ISLE OF RETRIBUTION

By EDISON MARSHALL

ILLUSTRATED BY RAY SATTERTFIELD © LITTLE, BROWN & COMPANY, 1923

He shook her roughly, until the torrent of her words had ceased, and she was slumped beneath his lurid gaze.

"You say—they've got a trap laid for me?" he demanded.

Her hands clasped before him. "Yes, but I say I'm not guilty!"

He pushed her contemptuously from him, and she fell in the snow. Then, with a half-smile, she revealed all to him. Her murderer's rage drew his pistol from his holster and started on.

XXIX

Watching through the crack in the door Ned saw the girl's act and her treason was immediately evident to him. Whatever darkness enwrapped him at the sight of the traitor's girl, begging for her little life ever at the cost of her lover's showed not at all in his face, set face. Whatever unspeakable despair came upon him at this ruin of his ideals, this destruction of all his hopes, it was evident neither in his actions nor in the clear, cool quality of his thought.

No other crisis had ever found him better disciplined. His mind seemed to circumscribe the whole situation in an instant. He turned, met Bess's straightforward gaze, saw her half-smile of complete understanding. As she leaped toward him, he snatched up their two hooded outer coats, and his arm half encircling her, he guided her through the door.

Whether or not she realized what had occurred he did not know, but there was no time to tell her now. Nor were explanations necessary; trusting him to the last she would follow where he led. "We'll have to run for it," he whispered simply. "Fast as you can."

Ned had taken in the situation, made his decision, seized the parkas, and guided Bess through the door all in one breath; the drama of Ned's tragic dishonor was still in progress in the glare of the Northern Lights. Doomsdorf, standing back to them, did not see the two slip out the door, snatch up their snowshoes and fly. Otherwise his pistol would have been quick to halt them. Almost as once they were concealed, except for their strange flickering shadows in the snow, behind the first fringe of stunted spruce.

Ned led her straight toward the ice-bound sea. He realized at once that their least shadow of hope lay in fast flight that might take them to some inhabited island before Doomsdorf could make them out, in giving him a chase across his own tundras.

They halted a single instant in the shelter of the thickets, slipped on their snowshoes, then rushed as fast as they could on to the beach. In scarcely a moment they were venturing out on the ice-bound wastes. Doomsdorf saw their tracks as he reached the cabin door, and guessing their intent, raced for the higher ground just above the cabin. But when he caught sight of the fugitives, they were already out of effective pistol range. He fired impotently until the hammer clicked down against an empty breach, and then, still useless with fury, dashed down to the cabin for his rifle.

But he halted before he reached the door. After all, there was no particular hurry. He knew how many miles of ice—some of it almost impassable—lay between his island and Tzar Island, far to the east. It was not the journey for a man and woman, traveling without supplies. There was no need of sending his slinging lead after them. Cold and hunger, if he gave them play, would stop them soon enough.

He had, however, other plans. He turned through the cabin door, spoke to the sullen squaw, then began to make preparations for a journey. He took a cold-proof wolfhide robe, wrapped in it a great sack of pemmican, and made it into a convenient pack for his back. Then he reloaded his pistol, took the rifle down the trail that Ned and Bess had made.

True, though Bess was from the day's toll, she moved freshly and easily at first. Ned broke trail, she nudged a few feet behind. She had no sensation of cold; hardened to steel, her muscles moved like the sliding parts of a wonderful machine. The ice was wonderfully smooth as yet, almost like the first rain, say ice frozen to the depth of safety. But already the killing pace had begun to tell. She couldn't keep it up forever without food and rest. And the brute behind her was tireless, remorseless as death itself.

The Northern Lights died at last in the sky, and the two hastened on in the wan light of a little moon that was already falling toward the west. And now she was made aware that the night was bitter cold. It was getting to her, in spite of her furs. But as yet she gave no sign of distress to Ned. Out of her love for him a new strength was born—the sublime and unmovable strength of women that is nearest to divinity of anything upon this lowly earth—and she knew that it would hold her up beyond the last limit of physical exhaustion. She would not give way to unconsciousness, then, causing Ned to stop and wait beside her till she died. None of these things would she do. Her spirit soared with the wings of her resolve. Instead her plan was simply to hasten on—to keep up the pace—until she tripped forward lifeless on the ice. She would master herself until death mastered her. Then Ned, hating but too instant to save the truth, could speed on alone. Thus he would have no cause to wait for her.

On and on through the night they sped, over that wonderfully smooth ice, never daring to halt, strange, wandering figures in the moonlit snow. But Bess was not to carry her brave intent through to the end. She had not counted on Ned's power of observation. He suddenly halted, turned and looked into her face.

It was wan and dim in the pale light; and yet something about its deepening lines quickened his interest. She saw him start; and with a single syllable of an oath, reached his hand under her hood to the track of the artery at her throat. He needed to listen but an instant to the reversed pulse to know the truth.

"We're going too fast," he told her shortly.

"No—no!" Her tone was desperate, and his eyes narrowed with suspicion. Wrenching back her self-control she tried to speak casually. "I can keep up easily," she told him. "I don't feel it yet—I'll tell you when I do. We can't ever make it if we slow up."

He shook his head, wholly unconvinced. "I don't know what's got into you, Bess. You can't fool me. I know I feel it, good and plenty, and you're just running yourself to death. Doomsdorf himself can't do any more than kill us."

"But he can—"

"We're going to hit an easier pace. Believe me, he's not running his heart out. He's planning on endurance, rather than speed. I was a fool not to think about you until it began to get me."

It was true that the killing pace had been using up the vital nervous forces of both of them. Ned was suffering scarcely not at all as yet, but he had caught the first danger signals. Bess was already approaching the danger point of fatigue. When Ned started on again he took a quick but fairly easy walking pace.

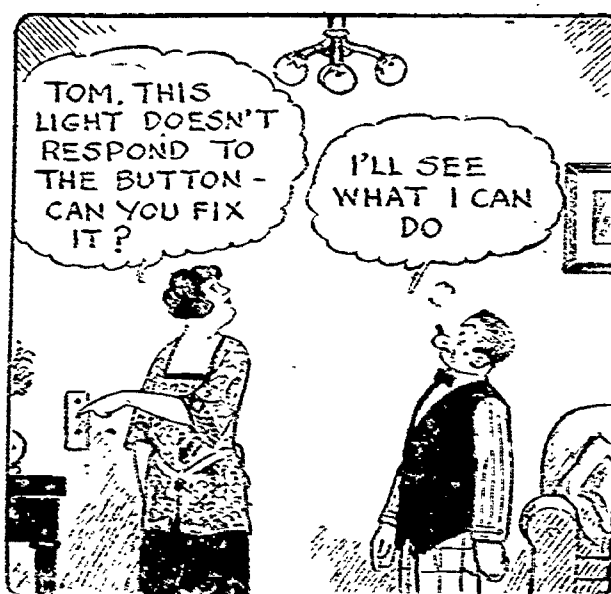

They rushed on in silence, not even glancing back to keep track of Doomsdorf. And it came about, in the last hours of the night, that the rest both of them so directly needed was forced upon them by the powers of nature. The moon set; and generally smooth though the ice was, they could not go on by starlight. There was nothing to do but rest till dawn.

"Lie down on the ice," Ned advised, "and don't worry about waking up." His voice moved her and thrilled her in the darkness. "I'll set myself to wake up at the first ray; that's one thing I can always do." She lay her tired body down on the snow, relying only on her warm fur garments to protect her from it. Ned quickly settled beside her. "And you'd better lie as close to me as you can."

Instinctively Ned's arms went about her, pressing her close; and tremulous with this ghost of happiness, the high-born strength of woman's love surged through her again, more compelling than ever before. Once more her purpose flamed, wan and dim at first, then slowly brightening until the ineffable beauty filled her eyes with tears. Once more she saw a course of action whereby Ned might have a fighting chance for life. Her first plan, denied her because of Ned's refusal to lead faster than she could follow, had embodied her own unhappy death from the simple burning up of her life forces from over-exertion; but this that occurred to her now was not so merciful. It might easily preclude a fate that was ten times worse than death. Yet she was only glad that she had thought of it. She suddenly lifted her face, trying to pierce the pressing gloom and behold Ned's.

Home Must Train Child For School

Monarch Of Nursery Must Be Taught How To Act As Private In Pupils' Ranks

Kansas City, Mo. — If Tommy is 4 years old, now is the time to begin getting him ready for that longed-for and yet dreaded first day of school. That doesn't mean that his trousseau have to be patched nor his new pencil box and slate purchased. It does mean, however, that his mother must begin preparing him to change from a nursery czar to a private in the school-room ranks. Mothers who have children coming of school age in a few years or months should get busy at once building the bridge to span the chasm between block houses and primer lessons, says Mrs. Paul F. Cope, president of the Kansas City Council of Parent-Teacher Associations.

To that end Mrs. Cope and the Parent-Teacher Council have opened a new department of education—classes for preschool mothers.

The classes are conducted afternoons and nights in every school district in the city. They are taught by fathers and mothers already experienced in having children in school.

THINGS TO KNOW

These are some of the things parents of prospective school children will learn:

That a child starting to school must be in as good physical condition as a race horse at the start of the derby—get away without a handicap.

That the habits of munching candy and eating between meals must be conquered in the nursery if the grades at school are to be satisfactory.

That the milk habit should be cultivated in advance of the school dictation.

That the first poetry in the primer will have added interest if, say, some of Robert Louis Stevenson's verses have been read around the grate fire at home.

That the place to fight jazz is on the living-room graphophone.

That a child cannot suddenly turn from an anarchist to an monarch of all he surveys into an orderly member of a schoolroom group unless the fundamentals of obedience and discipline have been instilled into him by the parents.

The classes for the preschool mothers, says Mrs. Cope, are to insure the children getting good starts in school and to bring about closer co-operation between parents and teachers.

The classes will include courses in health, nutrition, recreation, music, art, literature and psychology.

Adventures Of The Twins

Mrs. Upsedaisy's Baby

"Please go out and count noses," said King Snookums to Nick. "Go out and count all the Pee Wees and see if they are here, will you?"

So out went Nick with a big horn. "Toot, toot, toot!" he blew. "Are all the noses here? Will everyone please to count his nose and tell me if anybody is missing?"

Suddenly Mrs. Upsedaisy rushed out and grabbed him. "My baby has disappeared out of his crib," she screamed. "And I can't count his nose because it went with him. My darling Upsy Upsedaisy! He's gone! Kidnaped! Oh, what'll I do?" And the little Pee Wee lady wrung her hands something awful.

"What did he look like?" asked Nick, stopping his tooty tooting, and taking out his book and lead pencil. "I'll have to take his description so we can look for him."

"Pink nose," said Mrs. Upsedaisy quickly.

"Nose pink?" wrote Nick.

"Bald head?" said Mrs. Upsedaisy.

"Head bald?" wrote Nick.

"Two teeth?" said Mrs. Upsedaisy.

"Teeth two?" wrote Nick.

"Round and fat," said Mrs. Upsedaisy.

"Fat and round," wrote Nick.

"Say," said Mrs. Upsedaisy indignantly, "You're getting him upside down. He isn't upside down."

"Not upside down," wrote Nick.

"Goodness, you must be crazy," cried the little Pee Wee lady. "That's no way to find a baby."

"Is this your baby?" cried Nancy rushing in. "Mrs. Robin thought he was a bug and picked him up by mistake."

"Oh, the horrid thing!" screamed Upsy's mother. "How awful!"

"Toot, toot, toot!" went Nick on his horn as he strode back to King Snookums.

"All noses safe and sound!" he reported. "Everybody safe in Pee Wee Land."

FASHION HINTS

EMBROIDERED GLOVES

Nearly every glove that makes any pretense to being up to the minute has some fancy embroidery on the cuffs or on the back of the hand.

WIDE COLLARS

Wide cavalier collars of white satin or batiste trimmed with lace and embroidery are very effective on black velvet gowns.

Rustic Idea Makes Halloween Decorations Have Atmosphere

BY SISTER MARY

Let the table decorations for your Halloween party be as "rustic" as possible. A large pumpkin, used bowl fashion, filled with rosy apples and vines, light the table with candles and use carefully pressed and lustered oak or maple leaves for place cards.

The candle holders offer a chance for quite a bit of originality. Carrots, turnips, apples, potatoes and cabbages can be carved or hollowed out in the center to form holders for candles. Orange shells can be used for tiny Jack-o'-lanterns. A large ear of golden field corn can be broken in half and the cob cut away at one end to hold a candle.

LITTLE COST

Bowls of asters, wild ones, and goldenrod with feathery wild clematis, branches of autumn leaves and stalks of corn can be used effectively throughout the house.

Decorations of this sort could be used for almost any sort of a Halloween party. But if you have in mind a party of ghosts and specks and witches, decorations of black cats and old women on broomsticks will lend an eerie and suggestive touch.

These silhouettes can be purchased at a five and ten-cent store or made at home. Black cardboard paper, a pair of sharp scissors with a paper pattern are the necessary utensils.

Orange and black crepe paper can be fringed and used for shades over the lights, or attractive "transparencies" can be found in the stores.

Bats and owls are effective, cut from black paper and used as shields for side lights. The eyes of the owl can be cut out to let the light shine through, and the veins of the bat's outspread wings and a thin line to mark the shape of his body can be removed with a sharp knife.

Three tiny owls can be pasted to gether to form individual holders for nuts or candies.

The broom of an old witch can bear the name of a guest for a place card.

A black cat with a humped back and a waving tail can conceal a tiny fortune in a bow or red or yellow ribbon tied around his cardboard neck.

BLACK CAT

If there's a member of the family who is clever with a saw, invite him into saving out some rampant black cats from as strong pieces of wood as he can use. Drive a nail in the very tip of fussy's tail and force a big plumber's candle over the nail. The cats of course should have several coats of glossy black paint. The angles of the heads, the humps of the back and the "wave" of the tail can be made most expressive.

To go back to the table decorations, the luncheon or supper itself can be made so decorative that aside from place cards and a centerpiece, additional favors are unnecessary.

Bright red apple cups filled with salad are most attractive. Golden oranges filled with dessert rival the most expensive molded ice. Jolly little round pumpkin-yellow cakes with a surprise in the center are vastly more fun than the most elaborate of "crackers."

out the milk. This is the place where dust and impurities are most apt to gather.

FOR COMFORT'S SAKE

It is a simple matter to raise the working surface of table, stove or wash tub by placing blocks under them. Every housekeeper should adjust these to the height that is most convenient to her particular needs.

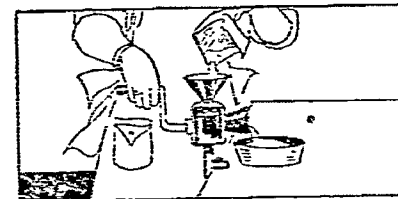

LATTICE OF RIBBON

A lattice work of two-toned ribbon or of faggoted bands is seen on some of the newest lingerie.

Household Suggestions

PIE CRUST

Flaky pie crust, which is the way all pie crust should be, is easily obtained if you add a spoonful of vinegar to the cold water when mixing it.

OATMEAL IN DOUGH

When you use oatmeal in dough as for cookies or muffins, grind it before you measure it.

DISCOLORED VASES

Glass vases that have been discolored by flowers can be restored by dropping in a few tea leaves soaked in vinegar.

THE SANITARY WAY

Always wipe off the mouth of the milk bottle carefully before you pour gravy the chicken "goes" further. A "springer" can be served to four persons, but no stretch of the imagination can make it serve more.

"Broilers" are in the city markets at any time of year but "springers" are best from August to November. (Copyright, 1923, NEA Service, Inc.)

TO BROIL CHICKEN

Allow one "broiler" for two persons. Singe and carefully remove pinfeathers. Wash well and wipe dry. Make a slash with a sharp pointed knife through the backbone the entire length of the bird. Lay open and remove contents from inside. The tiny ribs should be cut away from the backbone and pulled from breastbone.

Dip in melted butter, place in a dripping pan, skin side down sprinkle with salt and pepper and put in a hot oven for 20 minutes. The oven must be hot enough to brown the meat as it cooks.

TO FRY CHICKEN

Wash well after dressing. Disjoint and let stand in cold salt water for an hour. Drain and roll in flour seasoned with salt and pepper. Use about three-fourths cup flour, 1 teaspoon salt and 1-4 teaspoon pepper for one chicken. Melt three tablespoons butter, three tablespoons lard in an iron spider. When hot put in chicken and brown, turning often to prevent burning and procure an even brown on all sides. Cover and cook over a slow fire for 45 minutes. Remove from spider to a hot platter and keep warm.

Brown 1-1/2 tablespoons flour in fat in spider, stirring until mixture is perfectly blended. Slowly add 2 cups milk or thin cream, season with salt and pepper and cook until thick and smooth. The tiny particles of flour that come from the chicken should be left in the gravy.

This recipe is for the frying of "springers." If an older chicken is used the chicken should be parboiled in boiling water to cover until tender. Let cool in the water. Drain, dip in flour and fry in 1 tablespoon butter and 1 tablespoon lard. Use the chicken broth for the gravy.

Some cooks prefer to try out fat salt pork, using the tried out fat for frying. Less salt is needed in seasoning.

If baking powder or soda biscuits are served with fried chicken and

TELEPHONE CONVERSATION BETWEEN MRS. HARRY ELLINGTON AND MR. WALTER BURKE

"Is this Mrs. Ellington?"

"Yes."

"Say, that was a funny contretemps yesterday but you needn't worry about it, dear. It ought to make you see that 'what's sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander.'"

"By the way, what was the matter with you yesterday before your husband came in? I haven't done anything to make your angry, have I?"

"Not in the east Harry, but your coming into the tea room confirmed me in my decision that things have been going too fast with us. I am going to call a halt."

"I have taken a great fancy to Mrs. Prescott. Wait, I found yesterday that I had more fun shopping with her than I have ever had talking foolish nonsense with you, and I do not intend to have our friendship hurt by any foolishness on my part."

"I thought you told me, Ruth, that you were not a prude."

"I am not, but I do care very much for what people say of me, even though I know I am in the right. I don't believe there is a woman living who does not have regard for what people will say unless she has completely lost her self-respect."

"There you go again, Ruth. I thought you were a new woman."

"I am, but yesterday you showed me that even you want your women to be above reproach in the mind and speech of people. You wish us to be the most circumspect of beings with every one but yourself and yet you will not protect us against your self. Any woman with the slightest intuition would have known yesterday that you had been making love to me. I did not like it."

"I only wanted to make you happy, Ruthie."

"And you have succeeded, wait, in making me quite unhappy. You know of course that our little flirtation was perfectly harmless, but you gave it the appearance of premeditated mischief. I guess I'm vain. I want the little foolish things that make up happiness. Leslie Prescott hit the nail on the head yesterday when she said, 'All women want little kisses, small caresses, tiny bits of loving flattery, little children and a few friends.'"

"Don't you know, my dear Ruth, that you are the kind of woman who will never get anything like that? You have a kind of magnetism or fascination that some women have for all men. A man starts in to flatter you a little but either consciously or unconsciously you egg him on."

"I wish that were true, wait. I wish I could do that to my own husband."

"Do you ever try?"

"Isn't that rather brutal, wait?"

"No, it isn't, Ruth. For after yesterday I have found out the reason why your's and Harry's marriage seems a mistake. No man really knows just what he wants. Always some woman must show him. Harry has that age old tradition still in his veins that his wife must be something too good for human nature's daily food. It's up to you, Ruth, to make him think that you are not."

"And you don't think so, wait?"

"Certainly not. I would not have

Ways Of Caring For Clothing

To clean very fine lace, shake powdered magnesia over it. Fold, cover and let stand for a few days. Then shake the powder out.

Rub corn-meal on the fur. Take a clean soft brush and rub gently and the dirt will disappear with the corn meal.

For a ripping-knife use a safety-razor blade, which has both edges sharp. One edge can be covered with adhesive tape to prevent cutting the finger-tips.

In lengthening a skirt with tucks a strip of cloth can be sewed to the underside of a tuck easily by slipping a strip of pliable cardboard in the tuck. Then the pieces for the skirt can be joined invisibly by hand.

When pressing, if clothes become shiny try rubbing a piece of fine sandpaper on the shiny part. The correct way to iron pongee is absolutely dry with a moderately warm iron to prevent shining. It will take out every wrinkle and look like new.—From the Designer Magazine.

PERFORATED SPOON

In your kitchen supplies you should number a large perforated spoon for creaming butter and sugar for pastry. It is much more convenient than a regular spoon, or a fork.
